NRFTD "JAZZES IT UP" FOR LYME RESEARCH

The National Research Fund for Tick-borne Diseases, Inc. (NRFTD) will be hosting its Fall Fundraiser "Jazz It Up For Lyme Research" on Thursday evening, November 8, 2007 at the Aspetuck Valley Country Club in Weston, Connecticut. The event, hosted by Weston residents, Melissa and Geoffrey Bradshaw-Mack, seeks to raise funds to support the vital research efforts focused on finding a cure for Lyme disease and other tick-borne diseases.

The evening will be filled with fabulous jazz music featuring the Cool Struttin' Band, delicious hors d'oeuvres, fine wines and cocktails, a silent auction and an opportunity to learn more about the NRFTD. Guest speakers and noted doctors in the field of Lyme disease will be in attendance.

Residents of Fairfield County are well aware of the dangers posed by Lyme disease and other tick-borne diseases such as anaplasmosis, babesiosis, ehrlichiosis and bartonella. This event has been organized to help residents gain an increased understanding and perspective on how Lyme and other tick-borne diseases can have a debilitating physical, emotional & financial impact on the lives of affected individuals and their families.

The NRFTD of Wilton, Connecticut is the nation's only non-profit organization dedicated exclusively to funding scientific research in the rapidly expanding field of tick-borne diseases. The need for answers has grown markedly as Lyme disease continues to spread throughout our country at an alarming rate and as additional tick-borne infections have emerged as a serious public health threat.

For more information about the fundraiser, or to make a tax-deductible donation to the NRFTD, please call 800.728.7147 or visit www.nrftd.org. Tickets for the event start at $125.00 each.
